The camera is connected to your PC and a USB-cable is put into the computer. The video that is recorded is then stored in this folder. You can then watch the video in the video player software (vlc or mplayer, etc).

It is also possible that the software can be configured to send the video as streaming to an HTPC (Home Theater PC). The software is able to control the camera and start/stop recording. It does not convert the video as you have asked. Re: How to convert video using x264 in
